2013 KENTUCKY OAKS & DERBY

There is no doubt that sports events like the Super Bowl and World Series can boast of rich and colorful histories, but neither can match the Kentucky Derby, which will be renewed for the 139th time at Churchill Downs in Louisville on May 4, 2013. One of the oldest continuously-held sporting events in the world, the Run for the Roses was first contested back in 1875. Aristides was the winner that day in front of a crowd of about 10,000 Kentucky Derby ticket holders. For the 2013 Kentucky Derby, that number will be more like 150,000!
